Celebrating 50 years

WITH SIGNIFICANTLY BETTER SAVINGS

A milestone has arrived at Sigma 3 Kitchens. 2025 is the year in which we celebrate our Golden Jubilee.

We're a second-generation family run business that was established in 1975 by Brian Lakin, who began by making kitchens for friends and family out of a barn in Barry, South Wales. We have kept our Welsh heritage. Our 80,000-square-foot factory now employs over 200 people and isn't far away from where we first started. We've recently invested in a new 130,000-square-foot factory that will provide employment and opportunities to our local community. We're environmentally conscious. We only use FSC certified wood and have a zero-to-landfill policy.

As we reflect on the memories and key moments that have shaped our rich history, we're excited to step back through the ages and provide our customers with significantly better savings.

The Sigma 3 Times — A BRIEF LOOK THROUGH HISTORY

Sigma 3 Ltd Founded by Brian Lakin

After leaving school in 1972, Brian began working as a cabinet maker in Barry. His passion grew as he crafted units for family and friends in his parents' garden shed.

With rising demand, he set up a workshop in an old Nissen hut on his uncle's farm. On January 13th, 1975, Sigma 3 Kitchens Ltd was born, starting a legacy in kitchen craftsmanship.

1976

Expansion to Swansea

We proudly opened our second showroom in Swansea, officially inaugurated by Lord Tony Pandy, George Thomas, then Speaker of the House of Commons.

1982

1995

Resilience Through Adversity

A devastating fire impacted our factory, damaging facilities and contents. However, thanks to the resilience of our team and community support, we persevered.

1996

Rebirth in Llantrisant

Just one year later, we celebrated the grand re-opening of our factory, officiated by the then Secretary of State for Wales, marking our recovery and renewed strength.

Anna's Kitchen Feature

Anna Jordan, a Sigma 3 Kitchens customer who attended a meeting with designer Phil Rose in our Esher showroom, invited us into her amazing barn-conversion kitchen in Surrey for a tour. We drove through Surrey's hedged lanes and found Anna's farmhouse embedded in the landscape.

"Welcome to my Sigma 3 kitchen," Anna says after being prompted to introduce her project. "This is an Ashbourne Scots Grey. It's a typical Shaker style. We wanted something that was relatively neutral to bring out the fact that we've got exposed walls and some great views outside."

She gestures around the room, proud of how the space blends the rustic with the modern. "We've got wood around the island here and some copper on the back wall of the cooker. It's a nice, neutral tone with a little bit of colour, and we added a bit of colour to the island as well."

In her meeting with Phil, Anna admitted that the house would be a blank canvas. She had two main concerns: carving out a cosy kitchen zone in her open-plan home and creating a kitchen without wall units on her prized dry-stone feature wall. Fortunately, Phil addressed both concerns.

"The brief was that we wanted it to be open plan," Anna explains. "The balcony and staircase that we have here were definitely not in the brief and were, in fact, the creation of Phil at Sigma 3 himself. [...] We put in the spiral staircase, which actually is one of the main feature points for everyone."

Converting an expanse as vast as Anna's home into a relaxing space for family time isn't easy. That's why she beams when she says that Phil's kitchen layout ideas have become "a really important part of the zoning of this open-plan kitchen."

Storage To Complement a Kitchen Feature Wall
"Working out how we could get storage without there being much on this brick wall to keep that exposed was very important," Anna reiterates. Her eyes still glimmer at the prospect. Fortunately, she hasn't been disappointed. In her words, "When Phil sent through the visuals, we were so excited!"

Here, the massive kitchen floorspace came in handy. Working efficiently, Phil concentrated his kitchen layout suggestions on fully utilising our flagship cabinets, which we've innovated so they don't need a centre post. What does that mean? In short, Anna has 30% more usable space than market standards.

"I really like the overall country feel we've got with this," Anna gushes, gesturing to a decorative cooker mantle. "And, in fact, probably with the storage as well," she adds, remarking on a pair of pull-out larders. "We've got little nooks in here that hide a multitude of sins. [...] They're really useful."

Ashbourne Sea Salt and Scots Grey

Designed by Phil Rose in Esher

“We’ve absolutely had a great experience with them. We’ve got what we wanted, under budget, and that was really key as well.”

“We absolutely love the island. Having the space is obviously absolutely amazing as well. We described that we wanted a bit of a raised corner around the island to separate the island from the eating and sitting zones. So, it looks absolutely beautiful. We’re so happy with it!”

Creating Distinct Zones

Anna acknowledges the contrast in materials and how they help shape the space. “We wanted to have a difference against the whiter countertops. They’ve got a beautiful grain on them and just that touch of colour. And then we chose some cabinets’ handles as well that, again, brought out some nice natural materials.”

Anna’s Sigma 3 Kitchen Review

“We’d definitely recommend Sigma 3 Kitchens. Phil in the Esher branch was absolutely amazing. He knew exactly what we wanted, despite the fact that we didn’t actually even have any walls or house for him to come around and look at.”

“We’ve absolutely had a great experience with them,” Anna concluded. “We’ve got what we wanted, under budget, and that was really key as well.”

A Handleless Dream Kitchen

H-Line Sutton Highland Stone

Designed by Tabitha Frazer Blanks in Colchester Avenue

"We worked with Tabitha at Sigma 3 to design our dream kitchen. I think we pushed Tabitha on some design aspects including an amazing secret pantry which we were really keen to include.

Tabitha and the team went above and beyond to ensure our very specific requirements were met. Before confirming our order we did speak to some other kitchen companies who all just said "yes we can do that" but they didn't fill me with confidence. Tabitha's attention to detail was outstanding and Chris the fitter was unbelievable.

I have fitted quite a few kitchens myself in the past but this was another level. There is absolutely no way I could have done it. Our builder had included the kitchen fit as part of their proposal and I am so glad Sigma talked me out of letting them do it as I am certain I would have been disappointed. Sigma 3 were not the cheapest option (which is how my decisions are often made) but the end result is exceptional and well worth it for the quality of the service and the end result.

I would highly recommend Sigma 3 for a high-end kitchen project."

Absolutely Delighted with Our New Sigma 3 Kitchen

From start to finish, our experience with Sigma 3 Kitchens has been nothing short of exceptional. The design process was collaborative and inspiring, with the Lacra taking the time to understand our lifestyle and vision. They created a kitchen that is not only stunning but also incredibly practical. The quality of the materials and craftsmanship is outstanding – everything feels premium and built to last. Every detail was finished to perfection. Our new kitchen has completely transformed our home. It's now a space we love spending time in, whether we're cooking, entertaining, or just enjoying a quiet coffee. We've received so many compliments from friends and family! We highly recommend Sigma 3 to anyone looking for a beautiful, high-quality kitchen and a smooth, stress-free experience.

Perfect Recipe Served by a Perfect Company

From the first visit to the Esher showroom to meet Ollie Wilcox to the fitting by Glen, project managed by Ralph, the service was exceptional.

Ollie was an experienced and knowledgeable designer. Ralph made sure we were fully informed and made sure everything ran smoothly, including making a couple of practical suggestions, and Glen made the dream come true.

We have no hesitation in recommending Sigma 3 Kitchens.

We Would Definitely Recommend!

We purchased our kitchen from Sigma 3 (Culverhouse Cross Cardiff) in May 2024 and we are delighted with the outstanding finish. We looked at several kitchen manufacturers in S.E. Wales and we found that Sigma 3 Kitchens were a high-end quality product with appealing attractive accessories.

Joseph Jeynes our designer was professional and had excellent interpersonal & communication skills. He went above and beyond to achieve our vision for our new kitchen. He had experience, knowledge and his technical support and advice enabled us to improve our design.

James Sullivan managed our kitchen project. Again he was professional, knowledgeable, extremely organised and kept us up to date at all stages. Kris Cashin installed our kitchen and again we were delighted with the outstanding finish. Kris has extensive experience, his craftsmanship is impeccable and his attention to detail provided us with a kitchen fitted to a very high standard. Furthermore the after-sales service significantly improved our experience and we would not hesitate to recommend Sigma 3 and its kitchens/fitters to others.

Thank you Joe, James and Kris. We are extremely satisfied with our sigma 3 Kitchen.

Brilliant Service from Sigma 3 Throughout

We'd like to say a huge thanks to the Sigma3 team for the whole experience. To start with Katie was absolutely fabulous in the home and showroom visits and produced a whole new design for us when we had to change our original plan. Her knowledge and experience of the products and how the team would manage the work was hugely helpful and reassuring and she really helped me when it was difficult to make decisions. The prep team Steve and Jason, flooring from Craig, painters Nick and Nick and kitchen fitters Chris and Gareth all did a fabulous job and we felt safe and reassured in their professionalism and approachable manner at all times. James oversaw the project and was quick to work out any hitches or problems. They were all great to have in the house.

A big thank you to everyone involved. We love the kitchen and are really pleased with the quality of the finish. We would highly recommend the whole team.

Delighted With Our Kitchen, Would Definitely Recommend Sigma 3

Already being familiar with the Sigma 3 brand, there was no hesitation in choosing them for our new kitchen. From start to finish, we have been delighted with the service from the Swansea branch of Sigma 3. Our designer, Bryony Jones, was a delight to work with and she fulfilled our brief for the layout perfectly. Her choice of worktops to complement the door finish was genius. Jason kept us well informed at every stage of the process and we always felt in very safe hands. When it came to the fitting of the kitchen, this is where our experience became elevated. I'm finding it hard to find words to express the workmanship from our fitter, Dean Edwards, apart from perfection. He is a true professional and an expert in his trade. I must also mention Alyn Williams, electrician, who was a delight to work with. Nothing was too much trouble. We are delighted with our kitchen and would not hesitate to recommend Sigma 3.
